Proposed: Family Behavioral Health Center

A Place for Hope and Healing

Behind the dramatic stories in the news are real children and adults, filled with pain. With unrecognized past trauma. With untreated mental health problems.

“Quite simply, many of America’s children and adults are in an unprecedented mental health crisis. If we don’t step up to help them – and if we don’t do our part to help stop these devastating statistics from becoming even worse – who will?”

–Coach Joe Gibbs

A Message from the CEO

Dr. Gary L. Jones

Last year at this time we could only describe our days at Youth For Tomorrow as “challenging.” We’d gone through a devastating year in which we saw record numbers of cases of anxiety, depression, emotional trauma, suicidal thoughts among our children and other evidences of behavioral and mental illness. There is no question that as we tried to cope with the diseases, the challenges were intense and extreme. We continue to see the terrible effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, but we have two words at YFT that characterize the year 2021:

“HOPE and HEALING”.

In all our programs, throughout the campus and throughout the communities we serve, we saw hope emerge and healing occur daily as we adapted and strengthened our ability to address the terrible problems caused by the pandemic or the crises in families who sent us children. For 36 years, we have now served over 22,717 individuals and worked to heal broken lives and restore them to normalcy. We have achieved this remarkable record of service in partnership with you – our donors.

The additional stresses of the pandemic – isolation, financial stress, medical problems and losses of family and friends – caused an alarming rise in mental and behavioral health problems, including disturbing increases in the numbers of people starting or increasing substance abuse. In spite of all the challenges, Youth For Tomorrow kept our doors open 24-7-365 to those in need – we continued our residential program without skipping a beat. And we found new and improved ways to serve thousands of clients in the larger community, mostly through virtual therapy sessions from our six Regional Offices.

Hope remained alive in our Residential Program. We instilled hope in 752 lives – girls and boys who came to us in crisis – often alienated, angry, traumatized and with behavioral problems. Some had endured years of truancy from school and needed intensive remedial educational help. Some were fleeing for their lives from circumstances beyond their control and were alone in this country. This year the numbers included some Afghans. We sheltered and helped a record number of girls who had been sex-trafficked, and our program was honored by Fairfax County. An additional 163 children were served in our foster care programs. Together with the 105 children served in our Therapeutic Day Treatment program in the public school systems of Fairfax, Loudoun and Prince William and those in our Intensive In Home Counseling program (i.e. YFT provides these counseling services in the child’s home), we are prepared to serve many more in the coming year.

We achieved a major boost in our ability to serve adolescents in military families both in our residential and community programs with approval by the Tricare insurance system.

We met these challenges with the same formula we’ve applied since we opened our doors in 1986: a loving home with Godly principles, compassionate counseling and educational help that puts our children back on track to fulfilling, productive lives. You will read some of these stories in this Annual Report.

Our ministry program gained momentum in the past year. Our Wednesday Chapel Services are well attended as are our Sunday Church services. In the past year, 207 children accepted Christ as their Lord and Savior and 35 were Baptized.

We formalized a major symbol of answered prayer when we broke ground on our campus in October for the Pruitt Family Behavioral Health and Administration Center. The Center, for which $ 9.8 million in donations and pledges already have been raised through our Capital Campaign, will make it possible to greatly expand our capacity to serve community citizens in need of mental health services. The Center will be completed and open to serve the community in January 2023. It is worth noting as well that YFT balanced its operating budget for the 24th year out of the past 25 years!

Our Mental/Behavioral Health outpatient programs instilled hope in thousands of children, adults and families in the larger community who suffer from mental illnesses and behavioral health problems. We hardly skipped a beat in early 2020 when we were forced by COVID to pivot to virtual rather than in-person services. That remarkable feat by our Behavioral Health program staff showed us how effective we still could be in addressing mental health problems through telehealth technology. In 2021 we evolved into a hybrid model offering both telehealth and in-person services.

We opened a new outpatient counseling office in Dumfries, Virginia, in partnership with Sentara Health Care and with the generous support of Potomac Health Foundation. Thanks to this new partnership, children and adults admitted to the emergency room at Sentara have access to outpatient behavioral health services through YFT once they are discharged from the hospital.

Our community services programs demonstrated outstanding resiliency and spread the message of hope as our counselors were able to go back into the schools with the Therapeutic Day Treatment program and into the community with our Intensive In-Home Services programs. We trained and supported a record number of families in our Foster Care program and gave hope to the children they welcomed into their homes.

You will read about the specific achievements of these programs in this report. All are the product of so many people. We are deeply grateful to:

- Our expert, resilient and highly skilled staff members, who continued to serve and expand their efforts at a time when other organizations had to reduce services or close their doors entirely;
- Our generous donors who looked beyond their own concerns in these difficult economic times to provide help to those in need;
- Our faithful Board of Trustees and Advisory Board, whose steadfast loyalty and wisdom ensured stability and success in our programs;
- Our many partners in the community—the houses of faith, companies and other organizations that provided volunteers, gifts and other support; and
- The very professional and responsive law enforcement, EMS and healthcare organizations that partner with us.

To all the individuals and groups who have given a helping hand in this difficult time, we give our deepest thanks. You inspire us to continue our mission and to focused on the future as we prepare to serve children and families for generations to come.

Gratefully.

Whatever you do for the least of mine, brothers & sisters, you do for Me.

Thank you Youth For Tomorrow!

Nathaniel

"My name is Nathaniel. Getting sent to YFT has given me a chance for a better life. YFT keeps me out of trouble and is a place where I can work through my past struggles and traumas. I am on track to graduate soon. I want to thank Dr. Jones and all the staff at YFT for helping me get my life back together. After graduating from YFT I want to join the military. It has been a lifelong dream of mine to be a Marine."

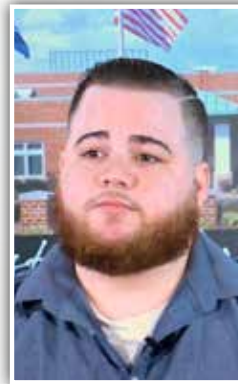

Sean

"One of the things that is impressive to me is how YFT works not just with the resident, but also with the families and tries to mend those relationships. So it's not separating them from the problem, but trying to deal with any damage to the family. So that when they leave here there's a healthy and repaired relationship between the two."

Luis

"I was having difficulty with my family, and when I first got here I was angry and upset. The staff members just helped me calm down and see the world differently. My viewpoint, my views changed, my values changed, and I got closer with my family members. YFT does change lives. It changed mine for the better. It really is a great place."

Adam

"I didn't want to be here. I was lost, didn't have a sense of myself, or any sort of dignity or self-respect. I had bounced around a couple of mental institutions and placements to try and get help. I never took hold of any of it, until I came here. And then, I met a lot of the staff, and the love that I was given was something that I needed and that opened me up a lot."

Aileena

"I wasn't in the best spot. I was leaving home, running away, doing drugs, and I wasn't proud of myself. I needed to be loved, I needed to be understood, and they gave me that. All the staff did. I learned so many things from the pastors and Pastor Denny. I also learned a lot about myself, who I really am and what I wanted to be in life."

Liesha

"At 8 years old I was placed in the foster care system as a result of being sexually abused by a family member. I bounced around homes and placements until I was 16 and brought to YFT. It was at YFT that I finally found a family and place to achieve my goals, including graduating high school. With YFT's encouragement and support I went on to college, something I never thought possible and after four years I was the first YFT resident to graduate from a four-year university."

Precious

Came to us from Africa through the Unaccompanied Immigrant Minor program. She graduated from YFT and is presently attending Messiah College with an Athletic Scholarship in Soccer. "When I came to YFT, my English was so poor. Teachers and staff surrounded me and tutored me and read to me. I felt so much love and support."

Now I am back working for YFT as a full-time employee helping the next generation of YFT residents turn their life around. I also plan to continue my education with a Master's Degree in Counseling through the scholarship program because I want to help kids who are just like me learn the tragedy of their past does not have to define their future. None of this would have been possible without the continued support, encouragement and guidance of the YFT staff and I am deeply grateful to all of them."

Thank you Youth For Tomorrow!

Robert

"It was a lot more positivity here than there is out in the world. Once you get out in the world you start to see all these things you didn't know existed. So, it was good that there was a place and a time in my life when I knew that people actually cared about me."

Sandra

"When I think of YFT I think about Love. I realized that the staff cared about me and was there for me. They just wanted to help me."

Brandon

"It showed me there are good people out there. I had a lot of rough moments as a child but coming to YFT you really get to see there are really good people out there, people that are willing to help."

Selma

"I felt like the place was so great everything was so beautiful here. The staff was so welcoming and it definitely felt like a good sense of family."

Christian

"The pride I have is that I can see that when I was at a point in my life where I thought nothing was going to help me, I let the people here help and it really bettered my life"

Shanita

"YFT gave me a lot... it gave me a sense of home, family, of comfort. I had never experienced anything as great as this Youth For Tomorrow."

Jovanne

"With the help from the staff here at YFT and Dr. Jones and the whole team I was able to learn self-control and how to control my attitude."

Ashley

"Work hard is the biggest thing and believe in yourself. You can't give up on yourself. Before I came to YFT I thought that nobody believed in me."

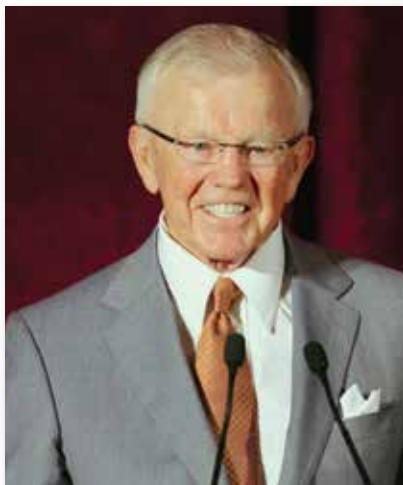

Ketaa

"As I continued to be here at YFT during the process seeing the love is genuine and the love is real it made it possible for me to open up and receive the love and what they had for me."

A Message from YFT Founder and Chairman

Joe Gibbs

When I think of Youth For Tomorrow and our mission of the past 36 years, I am reminded of Samuel. The Bible tells us that after he heard the Lord calling his name—quietly at first, then more insistently—Samuel exclaimed: “Here I am! Send me!”

Almost 40 years ago, a group of my friends and I heard God calling us to do something to help redirect the lives of troubled boys. Over the years, countless others have heard the same call and have stepped forward with their generous and compassionate hearts to help these young folks.

I am grateful for my trusted friend and our CEO, Dr. Gary Jones, whose leadership is beyond measure and has led us through the growth and expansion over the past 26 years. His life’s work has been YFT, and I’ve heard a few who have referred to Gary as the “Moses of the campus.” I can’t imagine how many young people’s lives he has personally touched.

Our campus ministry program is growing too, leading young people to learn to live with Godly principles and strengthening their walk with the Lord. God’s hand has always been on this program. Youth For Tomorrow changes people’s lives.

We can be proud of these accomplishments. Yet none would happen without you.

When we need you most, you step forward, just like Samuel, to say: “Here I am!”

There are many worthy places to direct your time, talents and resources. We are so grateful that when God has called you to Youth For Tomorrow, you responded like Samuel: “Here I am! Send me.”

With grateful appreciation,

Joe Gibbs

Board of Trustees President's Message

Vern McHargue

As someone who moved 11 times before graduating from college—and today as a real estate agent—I know how important “home” is. It’s where we feel safe, where people love us and where we can freely dream about our future.

For hundreds of children every year—and tens of thousands who have passed through our doors over the past 35 years—Youth for Tomorrow is “home.” Long after they leave and go out into the world, most still consider it “home”—the one place where they were and continue to feel safe, valued and loved.

That commitment to showing the love of Christ is what first drew me to this extraordinary organization. There is no greater gift you can give to a child in crisis than that of safety and love—and nobody does it better than Youth for Tomorrow.

Hebrews 3:4 tells us that “Every house is built by someone, but God is the builder of everything.” That mighty builder is at the center of Youth for Tomorrow’s mission, and we praise and honor Him for sending His spirit to work through Coach Gibbs, Dr. Jones and the YFT staff.

They say “home” is where the heart is. On behalf of the entire Board of Trustees, thank you for having a heart for this “home.”

God bless you!

The Pruitt Family Behavioral Health & Administration Center is Underway!

It was the culmination of a long-held dream – a place on the Youth For Tomorrow campus where YFT's highly effective behavioral and mental health services program could be greatly expanded to meet the ever-growing needs of the community. Thanks to a generous lead gift by longtime YFT philanthropist and Trustee, Cecil Pruitt, the dream has become a reality.

On a beautiful fall day in October 2021, YFT Trustees, donors, and supporters broke ground ceremonially on the site of the Pruitt Family Behavioral Health & Administration Center. Site preparation work started soon after.

The Pruitt Center will be a solution to the alarming increase of behavioral and mental health concerns among children and adults alike. The COVID-19 pandemic added additional stresses of isolation, anxiety, financial stress, illness and loss.

The 37,000 sq. ft. Center is under construction on the YFT 200-acre campus with an estimated construction cost of $9.8M. The new building will allow YFT to directly impact thousands more children and adults every year to meet with an expanded team of psychiatrists and therapists.

“One of the most critical needs this nation faces is that of effective behavioral health services for children, families and adults, including veterans. Youth For Tomorrow has successfully provided these services in our residential program, our satellite clinics, our outpatient community services and in public schools. The Family Behavioral Health and Administration Center will enable YFT to greatly expand these services and help answer that need.”

Residential Programs

The Wiser Village for Girls

The Doors Were Always Open

Despite extraordinary and persistent problems of the COVID-19 pandemic, Youth For Tomorrow continued to successfully manage its challenges and remain fully operational during 2021. While many schools and programs were forced to close, YFT's dedicated residential staff ensured that operations continued 24/7.

With the extended duration of the virus, it intensified feelings of fear, loneliness, anxiety and anger in children and in families. Many children are placed at YFT who are experiencing suicide ideation, a history of self-harm, experienced physical and/or emotional abuse in the home or may be a victim of sex trafficking or exploitation.

YFT's highly skilled professional staff, therapists, educators, residential counselors, nurses and case managers all stepped forward to meet the new and unique challenges every day.

There were significant accomplishments in 2021. Almost 800 children called YFT "home" in the 11 houses on campus. They live in nurturing homes, receive therapeutic counseling and attend school in YFT's accredited secondary school. Thanks to the YFT program, many children are successfully reunited with their families.

There was an increase of unaccompanied immigrant children seeking safety and a chance for a better life. YFT staff worked countless hours to attend to their physical and medical needs and to reunite these children with relatives or a sponsor in the United States.

YFT's residential program has had a historical success rate of 85% -- a number which in recent years has risen to 90%. Those who complete the program move on to college, join the military, find employment or reunite with their families in the community.

YFT's program continued to instill hope and healing into the lives of the children it serves.

YFT'S Residential Services 2021

Residential Programs

Mommy and Me

YFT's Mommy and Me program is a safety net for teen girls to help prepare them for motherhood. Expectant teens and teenage mothers with a child have a special place at Youth For Tomorrow and receive 24-hour care and supervision. In 2021, seven girls and five babies were served by the program, receiving counseling and attending school on campus. A staff nurse oversees their health in partnership with community-based medical professionals and the babies receive regular pediatric care.

Girls On A Journey

A Special Recognition by the Fairfax Board of Supervisors

Youth For Tomorrow's program to serve sex trafficking victims received a special honor from the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. In a Proclamation, the Board proclaimed the month of January, 2022 as Human Trafficking Awareness Month "to encourage residents to learn about human trafficking, how to spot the signs and help keep our most vulnerable community members safe; and to recognize and thank Youth For Tomorrow for their work serving survivors."

It noted that those in YFT's Girls On A Journey program "receive treatment and support to address their needs and mental health, gain understanding of the trauma they have experienced, improve self-esteem, develop motivation for change, improve life skills, and are empowered to reach future goals."

Youth For Tomorrow offers safe and secure residential and specialized trauma recovery services for girls ages 12 to 18 who have been sexually exploited or trafficked. It is the only facility in Virginia and in the mid-Atlantic area that offers these services. Since the program's inception in 2009, YFT has provided treatment and support to 265 victims.

Unaccompanied Immigrant Minors

The year 2021 created a record numbers of immigrants seeking shelter in the United States. Youth For Tomorrow provides a safe haven, counseling and medical services, and then reunite them with a family member in the U.S or a sponsor.

YFT has been serving UIM children since 2012, when it received a request from the President through the incumbent Governor to help with the unaccompanied children who were coming across the southern border. Working with the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR), U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, YFT serves children ranging in age from 10 through 17. Most are impoverished, fleeing gang violence in their home countries or at high risk of abuse and neglect as well as labor or sex trafficking. ➤

Educational Programs

Since August, 2012, YFT has assisted more than 3,500 children from 22 countries, despite the pandemic, the program continued without pause through 2021. As restrictions required, they received COVID-19 tests before entering the campus and then quarantined before joining the resident population.

Youth For Tomorrow Secondary School

The Graduation and Awards Ceremony was held on June 10th in 2021. The ceremony included graduating seniors who walked the stage to receive their high school diplomas from Dr. Gary Jones, advancing eighth graders receiving an achievement certificate and many students were honored with a special award recognizing their academic, leadership, faith and character-building achievements.

Graduation is always an emotional time, and it's even more so at Youth For Tomorrow as students – some who come two years or more behind in their education -- proudly come forward to receive their well-earned diplomas.

Youth For Tomorrow's state-accredited secondary school offers the state endorsed core curriculum including math, science, English and social studies, as well as music, art and physical education and ESOL as needed. It provides a therapeutic environment to help students navigate through emotional, behavioral and other challenges. Individual Education Programs are designed for each student. Student to teacher ratios are 6 to 1.

YFT's high school graduates celebrate a happy day with family, friends and YFT staff.

As Vice President for Education Veronica Myers said, "When our teachers see our students improve; become more sociable when they initially didn't speak to anyone; pass a class when things are bleak in their lives or simply hand their teacher a Valentine's card they personally made and decorated – this reminds us educators of the very reason why we do this."

Counseling Programs

Graduates then begin the next chapter in their lives, either choosing to attend college or a trade school or employment. All graduates have access to YFT’s special scholarship program, The Gary L. Jones Scholarship Fund, which over the years has distributed scholarships to 168 eligible YFT alumni totaling just over $1.5M

Counseling

All residential students at Youth For Tomorrow receive counseling services, including regular on-site individual and group sessions and access to community mental health services for residents with special needs. Family sessions are provided as requested and involve the resident, parents/guardians and the resident’s therapist.

The individualized treatment plan targets issues specific to the resident and the family unit and prepare the resident for reunification with his or her family or to explore alternatives for their future and livelihood.

apply for vocational training or post-secondary education while at YFT and following graduation and helps them to prepare for and apply for employment.

Their case manager follows up with each resident over their first year of transitioning. They will be referred to outpatient behavioral health services if needed. A total of 99 former residents received aftercare services, which included guidance, and at times, financial assistance with living independently in the community.

Lindsay’s Story -- Healing by Sharing

Two years ago rising country music star Lindsay Ells visited Youth For Tomorrow as part of YFT’s artist-in-residence program. She met with YFT’s female residents, some who had suffered terrible abuse and despair. As they shared their stories with her, the painful secret she had been hiding for so long was revealed. She had been sexually abused and raped – by people she knew.

“I left YFT feeling that if we don’t share our stories with each other, we are missing a way to bond with each other and we miss out on the healing that can come from it.”

In an interview with People Magazine, she said her YFT experience of sharing her stories changed her life. It also shaped her newest album: “Heart Theory.”

Lindsay returned to YFT in the summer of 2021 to visit on the way to her performance at the Jiffy Lube Live. She came to meet with female residents and she encouraged them to find healing by sharing their stories.

The COVID-19 pandemic has caused a dramatic increase in the need for spiritual healing among Youth For Tomorrow residents. Pastors Denny Glusko and Lawrence Hubb are sought for prayer and spiritual counseling seven days a week, and even residents who have graduated or completed the program stay in touch.

Youth For Tomorrow has been blessed to have exceptional staff members who reach children's hearts and inspire them to make Christ-centered choices. Chaplain Denny Glusko has touched countless lives for Christ in worship, Bible lessons and spiritual counseling at YFT for more than 23 years. He was joined two years ago by Pastor Lawrence Hubb, who became an ordained minister in 2013. He previously directed the YFT Therapeutic Day Treatment program

Campus Health Services

Health is a More-than-Full-Time Effort Now!

Allergies, stomachaches, colds and flu, supervised medications – all the usual health problems of children and teenagers were enough to keep the Youth For Tomorrow clinic busy the past few years. Then the pandemic hit and the nursing staff was faced with additional responsibilities of developing necessary safety protocols for staff and residents, COVID testing, illnesses, quarantines and vaccinations. This brought the YFT Clinic to a whole new level of activity.

Once just a single office staffed with one nurse, YFT's Health Services has evolved to become a dedicated clinic on campus with a team that includes nurse practitioners, registered nurses and other support staff.

The Health Services team, led by Nurse Practitioner Tanya Reynolds, has reacted rapidly to its many challenges and navigated successfully through the past two years of global pandemic. The team's special activities have included everything from activating a "Shelter in Place" policy in 2020 to coordinating a vaccine clinic for YFT staff in 2021 with Alexandria Compounding Pharmacy. And it's still open to those everyday complaints!

Brandon's Story A Long Haul

He came to Youth For Tomorrow in handcuffs and shackles, and he'd been bounced around from one juvenile facility to another and spent considerable time locked up in detention centers. That was 32 years ago.

Today Brandon Hoffman has a Master's degree in counseling and oversees a counseling agency in Virginia.

His path to success started with a chance meeting: His mother was in a Northern Virginia 7-Eleven store and saw Joe Gibbs – then Head Coach of the Washington Redskins Football team. Knowing he was a Godly man, she told him about her son. And he told her about Youth For Tomorrow.

At YFT he found a home. He remembers thinking, "The people are real. It's honest. Safe. Secure. I wanted to stay here. It was like home, and I didn't have anywhere else to go."

"If it wasn't for YFT, I'd probably be in jail or dead," he says.

With the help of his houseparents and other YFT staff, he completed the program, earned his degree in psychology at Liberty University, and returned to YFT as a staff member for 10 years, gaining important experience working with kids and giving back.

His message to YFT residents today, "Just believe in the folks who are really trying to guide you, and trust them."

Behavioral Health Services

Newest Regional Outpatient Behavioral Health Office Opens

Youth For Tomorrow's Behavioral Health Services program capped off a busy year with the December 3 opening of the newest outpatient regional office in Dumfries, Virginia. The office is currently staffed with five therapists including bilingual counselors to meet the needs of the surrounding community.

The office is in partnership with Sentara Healthcare with generous financial support by Potomac Health Foundation and the Virginia Health Care Foundation. It offers services for children age five through adults, and provides behavioral and mental health counseling including individual, family and marriage/couples therapy; play therapy; information and referrals, mental health evaluations and substance abuse services.

Sentara Healthcare has 12 hospitals in Virginia and North Carolina region and is on the front lines caring for children and adults experiencing health emergencies including mental health issues. When a patient is discharged from the hospital, they will then be referred to Youth For Tomorrow for continuation of their treatment with outpatient therapy.

Behavioral Health Services

Responding with Resiliency – and Succeeding

COVID-19 continued its tornadic behavior in 2021, and the challenges it created – long-term isolation, financial stress and medical issues and losses – intensified pressures on an already overloaded behavioral health services industry. Both the quantities of individuals seeking services and the severity of their problems were greatly increased.

The numbers of children and adolescents in crisis rose to new levels. Children were struggling with anxiety, depression and major issues of grief and loss. More adolescents were seen with suicidal ideation, self-injury and severe family issues. Family issues, including domestic violence, were exacerbated by the pandemic. There were record numbers of hospitalizations for mental health problems.

Adding to all the workforce problems caused by COVID, many licensed counselors in the behavioral health services field chose to work for themselves at home, creating a large gap in the number of therapists in Virginia. To meet the need, YFT created and developed a licensure supervision program to qualify Master's level therapists to receive Virginia licenses.

Youth For Tomorrow's Behavioral Health Services continued to meet the challenges with resilience. Responding to the pandemic, YFT made a remarkable shift in early 2020 to a telehealth system, transitioning more than 800 patients within three days. As some restrictions eased, YFT has been able to offer options including telehealth and/or in-person counseling. This has improved access to care for those with transportation or childcare challenges. ►

Behavioral Health Services

The COVID virus has had a disproportionate effect on black and Hispanic populations. YFT has always had a diverse staff in all its programs, behavioral health services among them. As example, 10 of 16 of a new group of Master's level counselors are Black, Indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC) and include Spanish speakers.

Youth For Tomorrow holds the highest level of accreditation among behavioral health care clinical programs. This includes national accreditation from the Joint Commission and the Council on Accreditation (COA). YFT also is licensed by the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services.

Behavioral Health Services, offered at YFT's six outpatient offices, include individual therapy, family therapy, psychiatric assessment for medication management (must be in tandem with ongoing therapy with a YFT professional therapist), comprehensive mental health assessments, comprehensive treatment planning and information and referral.

Therapists address depression, anxiety and panic symptoms, post-traumatic stress, anger issues, obsessive-compulsion issues, grief and loss, self-harm, attachment issues, co-occurring disorders, aggression, attention deficits and other behavioral concerns as well as familial and relational issues.

Substance Abuse Services

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports substantial increases in the number of Americans starting or increasing substance use as a way of coping with stress or emotions related to COVID-19. Overdoses have spiked as well. Youth For Tomorrow provides comprehensive substance abuse services for assessments, treatment and referrals. Based on treatment needs, YFT provides individual, group and family counseling. This includes medication management through psychiatry, with urine drug screens and alcohol test strips. Substance abuse services are available through the Loudoun and Woodbridge offices.

Serving Military Families and Members

Youth For Tomorrow got a big boost in its ability to serve military family members early in the year when it received certification from the Tricare military insurance system. Children of activity duty, veteran and military connected-families are now eligible for Tricare coverage for both residential treatment and outpatient therapies.

YFT has always had a special heart for military members and their families, who face unique challenges of risk, separation and frequent transitions. The demands can result in adolescents needing individualized attention to help them and their families cope, heal and thrive.

Many staff members at YFT are family members or veterans of the U.S. military services. Counselors and therapists at YFT treat a variety of behavioral issues including anxiety and depression, substance abuse, self-harming or suicidal tendencies, academic struggles, problems with authority, impulse control and risk-taking, and emotional difficulties.

Angela's Story Unlocking the Dream

Intense depression. Suicidal ideation. Apathy. Angela Brown was a bright teenager and a very good student, but no one could help the feelings she was having. Like so many other of the boys and girls that come to Youth For Tomorrow, she'd tried many treatments and other residential programs, but nothing helped.

But at Youth For Tomorrow, she didn't just get better, she excelled. Her mental health was treated and the team of educators at YFT's nationally-accredited school created an education plan specific to her goals and needs. This included an online English course that exposed her to literature and analysis. She learned what she was capable of.

"Everyone at Youth For Tomorrow was fantastic and kept me accountable. They pushed me to do my best."

Angela was able to catch up in school and graduate on time, and all four colleges she applied to accepted her. This spring, supported by YFT's Scholarship Fund, she graduated from Hollins University with a bachelor's degree in psychology. She's currently enrolled at Southern Connecticut University in the Master's Program.

"Youth For Tomorrow helped me be an independent person and that got me through a lot of challenges," she says. "I had to learn to ask for help when I needed it. No man is an island, and when I need help, I now know how to seek it out."

Back in the Game!

It was Off the Sidelines and Back Together Again at the 36th Annual Burgundy & Gold celebration June 12, Youth For Tomorrow's first live event since COVID-19 struck in early 2020. Though limited by pandemic capacity restrictions, Youth For Tomorrow's winning spirit was joyfully celebrated at a special Brunch under a big tent on the YFT campus.

YFT Board President Taylor Chess and Event Chair and Trustee Adam Volanth welcomed attendees. CEO Dr. Gary Jones shared remarks including YFT's plans for the Pruitt Family Behavioral Health and Administration Center to expand YFT's ability to address the mental health crisis in the community. In a special video, former residents related personal accounts of how YFT had changed their lives, and those attending were honored with a standing ovation.

He followed that with a special bid appeal for YFT's Fund the Unfunded program, which supports young people in crisis who have no resources. YFT Trustee and philanthropist Cecil Pruitt raised his paddle to pledge $100,000 to support the program. Other generous donors followed and a total of $246,200 was raised during the appeal bid!

Golfing for a Great Cause!

It was an evening of friendly competition, good food and fun golf when the Quarterback Club of Washington held a special event at TopGolf Loudoun, all to benefit the mission of Youth For Tomorrow. Chaired by YFT Trustee Blake Fellows, golfers met October 20 for the special event, which raised funds for the YFT Behavioral Health program.

The evening also featured some Redskins greats including Brian Mitchell, Mark Moseley, Ken Harvey, Pat Fischer, Bubba Tyer and Team Chaplain, Lee Corder.

The Quarterback Club of Washington was founded in 1965 by Washington businessman Bob Geoghan, who generously transferred the rights to Youth For Tomorrow in recognition of YFT Founder and former Washington Head Coach, Joe Gibbs. Future special events and activities are planned to continue the tradition and to support YFT.

The prestigious Quarterback Club of Washington "Player of the Year" award created by the Club is presented annually at YFT's Burgundy & Gold Banquet. The 2021 Player of the Year was star defensive end, Chase Young

Hall of Fame auctioneer John Nicholls led a spirited auction at Youth For Tomorrow's 36th Annual Country Fair & Auctions October 2. COVID restrictions limited the event to an auctions only event with a capacity limitation. Nonetheless, a few hundred donors and friends gathered with very enthusiastic participation!

The Live Auction featured more than a dozen amazing resort and golf trips, a tour of President Reagan's California ranch, a special NASCAR experience with Coach Joe Gibbs, a year of monthly restaurant date nights, a year of flowers, fabulous jewelry and a Rock Star Tour Bus for a week – and more. The auction, which also was livestreamed, followed the heartwarming groundbreaking ceremony for the Pruitt Family Behavioral Health and Administration Center (see Page 35).

Special Awards

In a Heartbeat Award

Dr. Gary L. Jones, CEO of Youth For Tomorrow since 1996 and counselor and advisor since YFT was founded, was the surprise recipient of the In a Heartbeat Award at the 2021 Heart 2 Heart event. Although the program was conducted virtually because of COVID-19 restrictions, the drama of the surprise moment was a delight to view as Heart 2 Heart Chair Cynthia Atwater and Board of Trustees Vice President, Vern McHargue presented the award.

Dr. Jones received the award in recognition for his steadfast leadership to YFT over the past 25 years, but especially for guiding YFT through the extraordinary pandemic-related challenges of the past year.

The Founder's Award

The Founder's Award was presented to longtime Trustee Brit Hume. The award reads:

"A gracious, thoughtful and articulate gentleman who has served the Lord's mission at YFT; A generous philanthropist for over 20 years and an esteemed member of the Board of Trustees."

The Distinguished Leadership Award

Taylor Chess, the outgoing YFT Board President, was honored with the Distinguished Leadership Award.

"For his exceptional and his gracious leadership and his expert business acumen while serving as the President of the Board of Trustees; and for his thoughtful and caring heart for children and the YFT mission."

Special Awards

The Nehemiah Award

The Nehemiah Award was presented to Trustee Vic Sellier.

"For his steadfast leadership in serving YFT with astute counsel and his compassionate heart and generous philanthropy to help children and families in need."

Nehemiah Award

In the Old Testament there is the Book of Nehemiah. He asked the king if he might go to Jerusalem to rebuild the wall and gates surrounding the city.

He professed God had laid upon his heart the desire to rebuild the wall.

The effort took 52 days and included the work of hundreds of people – All of whom, including Nehemiah – volunteered their services.

Nehemiah and his followers set an example for all of us.

- Set an example for others
- Overcome obstacles placed in your path
- Apply a selfless, tireless and faithful commitment to your work
- When God places a desire on your heart, follow it.

Volunteers of the Year Award

Volunteers of the Year Awards were presented to Advisors Kristine Johnson and Micheal Harmon. Kristine and Micheal have been indispensable to Youth For Tomorrow's Live Auction.

To Kristine Johnson: "For her faithful leadership and gracious volunteer spirit contributing to the success of the Country Fair Live Auction for so many years."

To Micheal Harmon: "For his enthusiastic volunteer spirit and faithful dedication to the success of the Country Fair Live Auction for so many years."

The Chairman's Award to Three YFT Stalwarts

Over the years, three special individuals and their families have stood apart in philanthropy and whose involvement has made Youth For Tomorrow what it is today. Chairman Joe Gibbs presented this special award to these three stalwarts of YFT philanthropy:

To Bill Hazel: Danny Hazel represented Bill Hazel and the Hazel Family. "For his legacy of visionary leadership with nonpareil commitment whenever called upon, and countless times when he recognized our hardships and stepped forward to meet the challenges before us."

To Bob Wiser: Russell Wiser represented Bob Wiser and the Wiser Family. "For his legacy of philanthropy with nonpareil commitment whenever called upon, and countless times when he recognized our hardships and stepped forward to meet the challenge before us."

In Memoriam

YFT Lost a Valued and Longtime Friend and Donor

Milt Peterson

Milton V. Peterson was one of the first investors who helped make Youth For Tomorrow a reality, and the blessings he and his family brought to YFT over the past 36 years are evident everywhere on campus.

The Peterson family has been a constant presence at YFT, from the Peterson Family Chapel shining as a beacon across the campus, to every fundraising effort, including the annual benefit golf tournament supported by the Peterson Family Foundation and led by son Jon. That generosity even extends to individual gifts given so each YFT resident would have a special Christmas.

Milt Peterson was Founder and Chairman of Peterson Companies. Under his leadership, Peterson Companies developed some of the most successful and award winning projects including National Harbor, Fair Lakes and Virginia Gateway.

One of the core values that guided Milt throughout his life and that he instilled in his family is the importance of giving back. The Peterson Family Foundation generously support the communities in which they live and do business. They have invested more than $100 million in charitable causes and helped to raise millions more for schools, health systems, social services and faith-oriented organizations.

Highlights of the Year

Peterson Companies Employees Team with YFT Residents and Staff to Beautify the Campus

Earth Day was Campus Beautification Day at Youth For Tomorrow as an energetic team of Peterson Companies employees, working with YFT staff and residents, spread over the campus and weeded, mulched and planted hundreds of perennial flowering plants and shrubs.

“We as a company are always striving to be part of the community we live, work and play in,” said Jon Peterson, CEO of The Peterson Companies and a long-time member of the Youth For Tomorrow Board of Trustees.

“In working with the children who are part of YFT, we hope to lead by example and to show that each person can have an impact, no matter how small it may seem. We are committed to making the environment and lives better for people in our region.”

Jaimie Young, Senior Executive Assistant of the Peterson Companies, coordinated all aspects of the campus beautification day. LandCare, Complete Landscape and KT Enterprises donated materials and supplies.

Highlights of the Year

Residents Are Treated Royally

Thanks to the creativity and generosity of the House of Victory Church in Fredericksburg, Virginia, boys and girls at Youth For Tomorrow found out what it's like to be treated like royalty and feel special and loved.

It was the girls' turn first. Early this year the YFT's female residents entered the gymnasium to find it transformed into a luxurious European café with pink and black balloons and other decorations. Hair stylists were on hand with curling irons and hair accessories, and school garb was replaced with beautiful ball gowns and sparkling jewelry. The beautiful ladies then dined on fine china and tables with white tablecloths. It was a "Cinderella experience."

Then in September, the boys from YFT's Courage House were treated to a fun-filled day with a special meal and program to help them recognize and celebrate their unique skills and gifts. The goal for both boys and girls was to help them realize their self-worth as unique and loved children of God.

Community Relationships

In the spring of 2021, Youth For Tomorrow's CEO, Dr. Gary Jones welcomed the new Prince William County Chief of Police, Peter Newsham and Prince William County Supervisor Jeanine Lawson for an introduction and tour of the campus. Chief Newsham previously served for four years as the District of Columbia's Chief of Police and came to Prince William County in late 2020. Supervisor Lawson has served as Brentville District Supervisor since 2014.

The police department is one of the many private and public community partners Youth For Tomorrow collaborates with to serve children and families and to work together on the behalf of the community.

YFT administrators meet quarterly with a liaison from the Prince William County Police Department to discuss security issues, monitoring for potential threats and other joint efforts to help students stay safe on and off the campus. Lieutenant Shane Ash is the current liaison to YFT, replacing Lieutenant Shawn Peak, who served in that position for many years.

Highlights of the Year

Visitors to the Youth For Tomorrow campus are now greeted by a large cross flanked on either side by shorter crosses. Located near the campus entrance from Linton Hall Road, the three are lit at night. The display signifies that Jesus Christ is the foundation of Youth For Tomorrow.

Celebrating a Giant Opening – Personally

Youth For Tomorrow’s friends at Rappaport found a unique way to commemorate the opening of a new Giant grocery store in Manassas near the residential campus. Gary Rappaport and Shelby Lofton led a community service project to create personal care kits for teens and families served by YFT. The group packed and donated a total of 100 duffel bags with personal care items for individuals and families in need.

Amazon Supports YFT Mission

Amazon donated a $5,000 check to Youth For Tomorrow in celebration of the grand opening of its new distribution center in Gainesville. The gift will be used for families in need of food, clothing and more.

Mentoring Program Gets a Boost

TJX and the TJX Foundation made a generous contribution in support of YFT’s one-on-one mentoring program, soon to be operating again as pandemic restrictions ease. The gift was made in celebration of TJX’s new Marshall store in Manassas. The mentoring program matches YFT residents with a caring, trusted adult for weekly quality time together.

Log In to Success

YFT thanks Hearts of Empowerment for giving students in Youth For Tomorrow’s Therapeutic Day Treatment (TDT) program in Loudoun County schools some new high-tech tools for their success. The non-profit organization made a generous donation of HP Chromebooks to the program and presented them to YFT staff members Ian Neal, YFT TDT Specialist; Jermaine Johnson, VP for Community Based Programs and Love D. Jones, VP for Development and Public Relations.

Highlights of the Year

It Was More Like Christmas Again!

Santa's Elves spent the weekend at YFT wrapping gifts. (L-R) Suzanne Lynn, Hannah Cole, Karen Cole, Kevin Cole, Emily Corder, Sharon Kirk, Crystal Partin, Amy Hutcherson, Noah Peak, Corrine Peak, Madison Peak and Lt. Shawn Peak.

Santa's Elves were busy in the "workshop" on the YFT campus just before Christmas! Elves gathered to wrap and sort gifts to surprise our children Christmas morning with gifts under the tree.

A special thanks to Santa's Chief Elf, Karen Ennis Cole and Assistant Elf, Emily Corder, for coordinating this year's YFT Angel Tree program.

In addition, families with hardship in our community-based programs were identified by therapists, and were provided grocery gift cards so that they could purchase a festive holiday meal for their family.

Gifts packed at YFT to send to a local nursing home.

Over the years, dozens of companies and individuals have participated in the Angel Tree project to ensure each child at Youth For Tomorrow would have gifts under the Christmas tree with their name on it. For many, it is the first time they receive their own Christmas gift.

In December 2021, as pandemic restrictions loosened, the Angel Tree sponsors were in full swing again.

Funds also were raised during the Bid Appeal at the Country Fair & Auctions, and YFT was able once again to distribute grocery store gift cards to families in need that we serve in the community.

Capital Campaign: An Enduring Legacy

Pruitt Family Behavioral Health & Administration Center

The Family Behavioral Health & Administration Center will allow for improved efficiencies in organization management, supervision of the professional staff and coordination of the multifaceted programs including an expansion of Youth For Tomorrow's behavioral health services programs. The facility will provide private offices for an expanded team of psychiatrists and therapists to meet a growing demand to serve more residents and clients. A much needed accommodation will be the inclusion of a health clinic which will greatly expand nursing and medical services to YFT's children on campus. The Behavioral Health and Family Counseling programs are currently serving at capacity with calculated growth to exceed 5,000 clients annually within the next two years.

The Pruitt Family Behavioral Health & Administration Center is currently under construction and will be completed by the end of 2022.

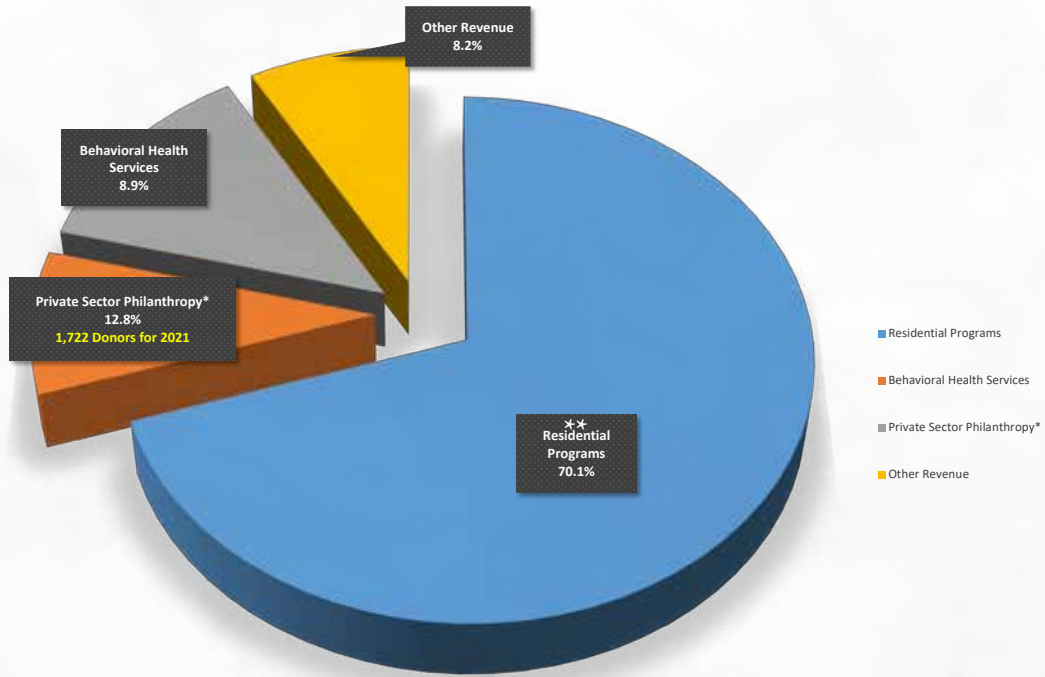

“The new buildings will make it possible for Youth For Tomorrow to serve thousands of children and their families each year through therapeutic services for any behavioral health issue within their families at greater cost efficiency -- while offering more comprehensive clinical services and creating additional sources of revenue. Quite a legacy by Joe Gibbs – indeed, an enduring legacy.”
