YOUTH FOR TOMORROW - NEW LIFE CENTER

In 1983, Coach Joe Gibbs, the Head Coach of the Washington Redskins, began a bible study for troubled teenage boys in D.C. His hope was to help them focus on their future, embrace strong personal values, and find faith in their lives. Always an optimist and ready for a challenge, Coach Gibbs believed it was not “too late” and that, with the right support and guidance in a nurturing environment, their lives could be transformed, enabling them to become productive citizens as adults. In 1986, Youth For Tomorrow opened its doors, and over the past 40 years, it has expanded from a single group home for boys to serving more than 800 boys and girls each year across 13 residential homes on our campus in Bristow, VA.
